

Table of contents

Foreword Annalisa Baicchi	7
Introduction Annalisa Baicchi, Cristiano Broccias, Andrea Sansò	8
Major strands in Cognitive Linguistics René Dirven	11
Part I – The Gestalt psychology-based strand
Cognitive linguistics, functional linguistics, and TAM marking Jan Nuyts	43
Metaphictive motion events Annalisa Baicchi	55
Non-causal change constructions Cristiano Broccias	76
Semantic maps in action. A discourse-based approach to passive and impersonal constructions Andrea Sansò	89
Part II – The phenomenology-based strand
The fundamental role of metonymy in cognition, meaning, communication and form Antonio Barcelona	109
Metonymy and metaphor in nominal classification: Tentative analyses of classifier data from languages of Southeast Asia Rossella Pannain	125

Part III – The cognitive discourse strand

Equivalence relations in natural definition: From scanning to conceptual integration. A Dutch-French perspective

Paul Sambre

137

Conditional conjunctions in the treaties of the European Union: A cognitive perspective

Annamaria Caimi

147

Text, context and cognitive metaphor

Diane Ponterotto

156

Cognitive Linguistics and the use of corpora: A brief survey

Francisco J. Ruiz de Mendoza Ibáñez, Olga Isabel Díez Velasco

170

Part IV – The cognitive poetics strand

From conceptual conflict towards analogy

Michele Prandi

185

Point of view in languages, texts and translations

Elżbieta Tabakowska

198

Part V – The psycholinguistic strand

Comprehending idiomatic expressions: The role of individual speed of processing

Cristina Cacciari, Paola Corradini, Roberto Padovani

213

Learning a second language: The role of verbal memory from an experimental psychological perspective

Paola Palladino

222

References

229

List of contributors

251